highlights of what's happening
at this stage of your child's development...

3 years

Your “little baby” is off to preschool, where her world will broaden seemingly overnight. And she'll need your hand to guide her. As she makes friends, you can teach her to share. As she potty trains, you can help her practice. With encouragement and patience, you can help set up your child for success.

your child's health

take note...

According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, you should let your doctor know if, by the time your child is 4, she cannot or does not:

- jump in place
- grasp a crayon between thumb and fingers
- scribble
- use sentences of more than three words
- use “me” and “you” appropriately

The Well Visit

Expect to take your child to the doctor for checkups when she turns 3 and again, when she is 4. Exams might include tests to check for lead poisoning, tuberculosis, and kidney and metabolic diseases. Also, well visits are a good chance to check with your pediatrician about any booster shots that your child may need before starting school.

The Dentist

By the time your child turns 3, she should have almost all of her 20 baby teeth. This means it's time to visit the dentist.

Before the visit: Prepare your child by talking about what will happen at the dentist's office and reading books about going to the dentist.

At the dentist: The dentist will count and examine your child's teeth, and give a lesson about how to brush her teeth.

- Brush teeth at least once per day (especially at night).
- Use a child-size tooth brush with child toothpaste.
- Let your child brush her teeth herself and then help her to make sure her teeth get cleaned. Is brushing a battle? Give her your toothbrush so that she can “clean” your teeth while you clean hers.

Nutrition

Part of the family. At this age, your child's eating habits should be similar to yours. She should eat the same foods at the same times, and use child-size utensils.

Beware: Choking is still a hazard because your child has not yet mastered chewing and swallowing. So, make portion sizes small, especially when serving:

- Grapes (cut them in half)
- Hot dogs (slice in half across and lengthwise)
- Raw vegetables, such as carrots and celery
- Peanut butter (avoid spoonfuls)
- Avoid entirely foods such as hard candies and cherries with pits.

Sleep

Goodbye naptime. Between the ages of 3 and 4, children commonly give up their afternoon naps. Your child should sleep anywhere from nine to thirteen hours per day.

Hello bedtime battles. As a way of gaining control of her world, your child may try to resist bedtime. You can ease the process if you:

- Stick with the bedtime routine
- Allow your child to make choices — pick out pajamas or books to read
- Provide a sense of security with nightlights, security blankets or stuffed animals

Toilet Training

At this age, children's toilet skills are all over the board. Some kids may have mastered it. Others may be just starting. Don't get down on your child (or yourself) if your child is still learning. No matter where your child is in the process, you will probably deal with:

- 1) accidents. They happen. Don't get mad or make a big deal about it. This will only discourage your child from trying on her own again.
- 2) preschool. First, your child's preschool may require her to be trained in order to attend. So, set her up for success:
 - Let her use toilets outside of your home.
 - Dress her in clothes that are easy for her to pull up and down.
 - Have boys practice from a standing position.
- 3) staying dry at night. Help her along by:
 - using the potty right before bed
 - limiting liquids after 5 pm
 - putting her to bed in underwear instead of pull-ups
 - making the potty accessible to her in the night

3 years

your child's growth and development

Your child should be able to do most or all of the following by the time he turns 4 years old:

Physically

- Throw and kick a ball
- Draw circles and squares
- Begin to copy capital letters
- Dress and undress

Intellectually

- Identify "same" and "different" objects
- Talk in short sentences so that others can understand
- Tell and remember parts of stories

Socially and Emotionally:

- Cooperate with other children
- Engage in fantasy play
- Understand that there are ways to solve problems

nurturing your child

Sharing

To have a friend means to be a friend. Whether at school or at a playgroup, you'll notice that your child is beginning to make friends. For the first time, he faces difficult new issues like sharing and taking turns.

To help your child understand these concepts, you can:

- Show him how to share. Offer your child a pen from your desk in exchange for one of his markers. Also, let him see you sharing with others. Use the word "share" during these interactions, so he can begin to connect the word to the action.
- Use "share-friendly" toys. When your child has a friend over to play, put out toys that lend themselves to sharing and cooperating. Try blocks, dress up clothes, art supplies and climbing toys. Also, before guests arrive, put away toys that your child does not want to share.

- Practice with your child. Play games that involve taking turns such as board games, the memory game and hide-and-seek are good.
- Encourage and explain. Praise your child when he shares, but don't punish him if he does not. Instead, wait until you are alone with your child and talk about sharing. Explain that just because he lets his friend use his toy doesn't mean that the friend will get to go home with it.

Television/Computer time

Limit TV watching. One to two hours per day is more than enough. Also, monitor the shows he watches. Tune into shows that have nice messages. Tune out violence.

your child's safety

In the car

Booster time? If your child is: 3 years old AND weighs at least 40 pounds, she is ready for a booster seat.

Note: You may also make the switch if your 3-year-old is too tall for her car seat—her shoulders no longer fit into the shoulder straps at the top setting. Stick with the booster until your child is about 8 years old. The general rule is that you must use a booster until a child is 80 pounds and taller than 4'9" tall.

take note...

Now that your child is interacting more with other children, she is more likely to be exposed to new germs. Remind her to wash her hands well when she comes in from outside, after using the toilet and before she eats.

Born Learning™ is a public engagement and material distribution campaign that provides important information about what young children need every day to ensure quality early learning. Designed to support you in your critical role as a child's first teacher, Born Learning materials are made available through the efforts of United Way, United Way Success By 6 and Civitas.
